HOW TO BE POPULAR.

Some Hints For Debutantes by a Man Who Knows.

Always take it for granted that every one means well by you unless you have proof to the contrary. The average person in society has a good natured or at least a cynical sort of tolerance and liking for you. Very few actually hate you or want to spite you. When you find out that there is some one who does, don't discuss it or quarrel about it if it can be avoided. Just drop the person from your life as completely as possible, and, above all, never descend to abuse him or her. It will hurt you worse than it will your enemy.

Don't snub other women and girls just because there is a man around. The man will not like you any better for ignoring a girl friend and earnestly devoting yourself to him. It is the married women and your girl comrades who can give you a good time or not in the end. Very few women dislike you because of your successes. It is because of your flaunting them.

Never ignore older and married men. They will not forgive it, and they wield a mighty power.

Don't wonder what people are thinking of your pose, and your gown, and your hands, and the position of your feet. Ten to one they don't even see you, and if they do they are not bothering their heads about you. A very young girl's worst fault is her self consciousness.

Don't be wondering what you will say next. A pause is nothing deadly if you do not make it so. Trying to say something—anything—to fill in a hiatus is the most potent cause of that mistake commonly known as putting your foot in it.

Don't giggle; but, on the other hand, don't look as if you were at a wedding or a funeral.

Use your eyes to say what it doesn't happen to be practical to say with your tongue.

If you happen to be left stranded for one dance, never sit all alone on one side of the wall to be pitied. Get up and go over to some group of matrons and don't fancy that the whole room is watching your transit.

How to Make a Japanese Wrapper.

A useful wrapper is built in the Japanese kamona style—flat and straight behind, with a turnover collar extending in broad revers all the way down the front, and with wide square sleeves turned up with a cuff the depth of the elbow. It is entirely of the Persian flannel of a red hue, with sleeves and fronts faced with plain cardinal flannel and a sash to wind about the waist of red silk a half yard wide.

How to Take Care of Your Bicycle.

It should be cleaned every time one comes in from a run—a proceeding which sounds rather dreadful, but is exceedingly easy in reality. When one knows how to do it, from seven to ten minutes is all that need be allowed for putting every part in spotless order—brushing the tires with not too hard a brush and wiping them, the spokes and all the enameled parts with a soft, dry duster.

The hubs may be reached with a long handled brush, and a good rub with selyt over the plating finishes the whole process. Mud should always be removed wet—not allowed to dry on. Dry mud scratches the enamel when it is rubbed off and sifts into the bearings, which it soon ruins. Water should not be used unless to moisten a spot of dry mud. It is apt to injure the machine. But the tires may occasionally be wiped down with a wet cloth. It is good for the rubber.

How to Cook Clams a la Tabasco.

Chop a dozen clams fine and stir them for five minutes over a slow flame in a cupful of clam liquor and a tablespoonful of butter. Add the juice of half a lemon, some salt and pepper and a few drops of tabasco sauce and a sprig of chopped parsley. Serve on toasted crackers.

How Menthol Came Into Use.

Some ten years ago the Japanese and Chinese stores sold small lumps of a whitish substance resembling camphor in looks and consistency, with a strong odor of peppermint and a decidedly cooling effect upon the skin. The physicians of the east use the oil or extract of mint for all diseases of the digestive tract, and they refer every illness to these organs unless caused by a local wound or dislocation. Let this fact be remembered when the next spell of hot weather falls upon us. From the little children to the old there can be no better remedy in sickness to revive the failing vital powers either at dawn, in sickness or after a hard day's work or as an indulgence in the form of a mint julep.

How to Treat Sprains.

Half a pint of best vinegar, half an ounce of spirits of turpentine, quarter of an ounce of spirits of camphor, quarter of an ounce of spirits of wine and one fresh egg. Beat the egg well, then put all in a bottle, shake well and keep corked tight. Costs a mere trifle.
